Heliyon Editorial Board

Heliyon is actively building individual sections that are managed by respected researchers and experts in the field. These dedicated and experienced section editors and their teams of associate editors, supported by our in-house editorial team, are responsible for managing the peer review process for all submitted manuscripts within their subject sections. These dedicated sections allow us to tailor each author's experience to the needs and standards they have come to expect within their respective fields.

In addition to section and associate editors, each Heliyon section has an advisory board. Advisory board members are experts from various fields that are consulted for feedback on the journal and developments in their respective fields of research. They also act as trusted and reliable reviewers for submitted manuscripts within their expertise. See editorial and advisory board vacancies here.

Heliyon has recently created a collection of publications from our editorial board, which you may be interested in reading.
